All told, 63 German nationals are employed at the Garcrebo Berlin bank. The bank has branches in Dresden, Halle, Leipzig, Erfurt and Magdeburg. Each branch employs an average of 20 to 30 people.

25X The chief task of Garcrebo is to grant credit to the SAG's and to supervise the finances of the SAG's. The bank has only two German clients: Reifen-Mueller, a trust company in Schmoeckwitz; and Bertha Luther, a clothing store (Bekleidung) in Berlin.

All Russians employed at Garcrebo Berlin live in the Karlshorst compound. They are brought to work in the morning in buses, and at noon they take turns going home to the compound; for this purpose the bank has at its disposal three automobiles with 20 license plates (East Berlin plates). In the evening, the Russian employees are taken back to the compound by the same bus which brings them to work in the morning.

The bank is guarded day and night by five Volkspolizisten.
